Regents Expect to Set Date for Levy Election

Boards Meets February 19; Two Mill Increase Asked by OU; 45 Days Needed to Advertise

Omaha University Board of Regents hope to set the date for a special mill levy election at their regular meeting February 19.

The Unicameral bill (LB-118), which would allow the election to be held, has had clear sailing so far in the Statehouse at Lincoln.

Advanced from committee 7-0, it was approved 40-0 in its first reading by the lawmakers last week.

University officials are hoping LB-118 will be passed by the Legislature and signed into law by Governor Frank B. Morrison no later than February 18. Tentative dates for the election are April 23 and 30.

Douglas County Election Commissioner Jerry Hassett said his office must "advertise" the election 45 days before the day it can be held.

Voters will be asked to allow the OU property tax levy to be increased from the current limit of two mills to four mills.

District 54, 66 Case

Omaha University attorneys this week were working to answer a brief before the Nebraska Supreme Court that could have far-reaching ramifications.

The brief, filed on behalf of two residents of Ralston School District 54 and District 66, requests an injunction be lodged against OU and Douglas County Treasurer Sam J. Howell. The injunction would force about $127,000 collected from the two districts be held in escrow until the case is completed.

The plaintiffs contend they have no voice in the selection of the OU Board of Regents and, therefore, are being taxed without representation.

OU Regents are selected by the Omaha School Board, but part of Districts 54 and 66 are within the Omaha city limits.

District Judge Donald Brodkey tossed the suit out of court in December, but plaintiffs' attorney Ben Wall appealed to the State Supreme Court.

If the high court should uphold the request for the injunction, an OU spokesman said, students who are residents of Omaha and live within Districts 54 and 66 could be faced with paying non-resident tuition.

Bootstrap Picture Deadline Febr. 15

Pay the $4 fee to the University Cashier, located on the second floor of the Admin. building, and be certain to get a receipt. Then present this receipt at the time you have your picture taken. All senior pictures must be taken by the photo studio located in the Brandeis Crossroads Store, located on main floor at 72nd and Dodge Streets. We suggest that you call for an appointment: 391-8500. All pictures should be completed before February 15.

Please understand that part of the $4 helps us to get the yearbook out, and that the studio does not receive this amount. You are not paying $4 for the picture, but for the picture and the space it occupies in the yearbook. Refer any questions to Paul V. Peterson, Director of Student Publications, Room 130 AA or call Malanie Jeub, TOMAHAWK editor

'Desperate Hours' Begins Thursday

Three escaped convicts, who hold a family as captives for two days, set the pace for "The Desperate Hours," the second University Theatre production this season.

The three-act drama, written by Joseph Hayes, will be presented Feb. 14, 15 and 16 at 8:30 p.m. in the Administration Auditorium under the direction of Dr. Edwin Clark, professor of speech and director of the University Theater. Assistant director is Carol Abernathy.

Speech Dept. Given Grant

"One of the finest things that has happened to the speech department since I have been here," is the way Dr. Aldrich Paul, head of the Speech Department, described the anonymous $1,000 grant that the Speech Department of Omaha University received last week.

The purpose of this grant as Dr. Paul described it is to "help and encourage college students to communicate their ideas better and more effectively." The grant is to be used for the calendar year of 1963.

The way the money has been proposed to be used this semester is as follows:

1. Extension of Intramural Speech Contest—$100
 - A. Individual Competition
 1. Discussion
 2. Extemporaneous Speaking
 3. Oral Interpretation
 4. Debate
 2. Extension of Intercollegiate Debate Activities—$200
 - A. Selection of additional debate teams
 1. Expense for additional team travel
 3. Awards for Outstanding Achievement—$200
 1. Intramurals
 - a. Scholarship—$50
 - b. Awards—$50
 2. Intercollegiate Debate
 - a. Scholarship—$50
 - b. Awards—$50

The fall semester proposed program for the money is the same.

All in all 40 per cent of the grant will be used for the intramural speech program. The handling of the 3 intramural speech contests is done by Warren Gore, assistant professor of speech, and Dennis Fus, instructor of speech. The number is an increase of 2 over previous years. Previously the after-dinner contest was the only one held. Now there will be the persuasive speech and the oral interpretation types of speeches.

For further information about the 3 contests contact either Mr. Gore or Mr. Fus.

The deadlines for entry into the after-dinner contest is February 20. The preliminaries are to be held on February 25-28. Finals will be held on March 4-6.

Anyone interested in editing the 1964 Tomahawk must have an application into Paul V. Peterson AA 130 by noon February 8.

Registration Runs Smooth, But Freshmen Find Classes Closed

By Arlo Grafton

"We know we are at least 400 over the total amount of students that registered for the spring semester at this time last year."

This statement was made by University Registrar Virgil Sharpe when questioned about the number of students that have already registered for this semester.

He also added, "We have reason to believe that registration in the evening classes is also up."

Sharpe believes that for the most part registration went smoothly for seniors, juniors and sophomores. He said there were problems in the freshman class, especially those students with last names beginning at the end of the alphabet. The problem here had to do with closed classes. "Of course," he added, "this is nothing new, we've always had this problem."

Z's in Luck

However, the students with last names beginning with letters toward the end of the alphabet are in luck. Next September, the Registrar's office will start with the Z's during registration. For spring semester registration they will start from the middle of the alphabet and work both ways. This, however, will really only benefit the seniors and juniors since they get first choice of classes.

A new "time card" method was introduced for the first time during registration in the night sessions.

When a night student picked up his packet, he was given a card with a number on it. Certain numbers were to appear at a specified time and when this number was called he went up to register.

Less Changing

According to Sharpe, this system worked so well that the Registrar's office is going to stick with it and enlarge upon it.

Bookstore Tabbed 'Just Normal'

"The situation in the bookstore is normal," said OU bookstore manager Ben Koenig, concerning the shortage of some books. Mr. Koenig continued, saying, "We are doing everything possible to get the books that we need quickly."

The bookstore uses past experience and anticipated enrollment figures when ordering books, and always orders more than they think they will need.

Mr. Koenig said that the shortages are caused by certain fluctuations in registration, which is one of the hazards of the college bookstore business.

Registrar Sharpe said there was less schedule changing than in previous semesters. He figures this was due to the fact that students were able to do their changing during the week of pre-counseling.

This is the last day that a student can add a credit course to his schedule. Monday is the last day for those in the evening sessions. However, a class may be dropped in the next eight weeks.

The refunds for classes dropped in the day session are: 75 per cent during the first or second week; 50 per cent during the third or fourth week; 25 per cent during the fifth or sixth week; nothing after the sixth week.

Night session refunds are: 100 per cent if the withdrawal is made before the first class meeting; 80 per cent if the withdrawal is made in the first week; 60 per cent if the withdrawal is made within the second week; nothing if the withdrawal is made after the second week.

$5.00 Fee

Many students have questioned the $5.00 fee for changing their schedule.

According to Sharpe, since it is in the catalog, it has to be enforced by the Registrar's office. But he added, "If the change has to be made because of an error made by the University, we will not charge the fee. Otherwise it has to be paid."

Sharpe then pointed out that it is not just a matter of changing one card for another.

When a student makes a change of program, it first has to be processed by the Registrar's office and the Cashier's office. Then it goes to data processing where the old class card is pulled from the student's packet and replaced by the new one. From here the change of program comes back to the Registrar's office where a clerk pulls the number 2 card of the individual, crosses off the dropped class and adds the new one.

This is what the $5.00 pays for.

Speech Dept. Adds D. Suave

A new instructor has been added to the day faculty of the Speech Department. He is Dudley Suave.

Mr. Suave was graduated from the Ripon (Wis.) College with a B.A. in Speech. He received his M.A. from Northwestern University in Radio and T. V.

He taught two years at Creighton University and has considerable experience in the advertising field.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Paul Beavers

Omaha School District voters this week overwhelmingly (70 per cent of those voting) approved a $25-million school bond issue.

They showed their support of education by turning out in record numbers for a single issue special election.

Omaha University will be going to the voters in a few weeks (the date hadn't been set at this writing) to request that the OU mill levy ceiling be raised from two mills to four mills.

Whether the voters will look with favor on OU is a big question.

Nothing For Granted

We can be hopeful, but that's all. Nothing must be taken for granted.

In the successful special school bond election, the voters were rained with a deluge of information. Indeed, OU must provide the vital information to the voters as well.

A major problem will be "telling the OU story" to the public.

Here's where you, the student, can play an important part.

During the campaign there will be questions, criticism and opposition.

Let's Be "Up"

As one philosopher put it: "People are down on what they ain't up on."

Much of the responsibility for getting the voters "up" on OU will rest with the students.

For those who know the facts, there is no question about the need for the mill levy increase.

During the upcoming weeks, the GATEWAY will be doing its best to provide the facts on the election.

We are hopeful you will be aware of the information available and use it enthusiastically to support YOUR University.

Col. Marston to 'Planning' Position

Col. Anson D. Marston, chairman of the Omaha University Engineering department has been appointed to the Omaha Planning Board by Mayor Dworak.

Col. Marston will fill the remainder of the term of Charles O'Rourke, who has resigned. The term will end July 31, 1964.

Col. Marston formerly served as Public Works Director of Omaha and as Deputy Divisional Engineer of the Missouri River Division in the Army Corps of Engineers.

Question of the Week

QUESTION: What did you think of the way registration was handled this semester?

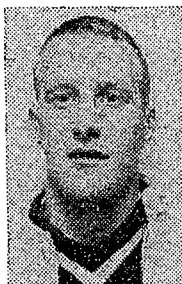

Sandy Hancock,
sophomore,
psychology:

"I thought it was a little confusing. But with time when it gets worked out, I think it'll be a real good thing. Only one of my classes was closed."

Jerry Adouch,
junior,
aeronautical
engineering:

"It seemed to me like it was much quicker. I especially liked having the counselors in the same building, so that if a change was necessary, you didn't have to run clear across campus to make it."

Tom Wolff,
sophomore,
psychology:

"I thought it was pretty efficient. I registered at 3:00 on Thursday, and I never had to stand in line at all. And I didn't have any trouble getting my classes."

Harold Friedman, senior,
sociology:

"I thought it was much better—a real improvement over the old system. I was surprised that it went so smoothly. It took me less than half an hour to complete registration."

Mary Johnson,
sophomore,
education:

"My objection is that you have to stay in town during semester break, and having to register at this time completely killed my ski plans. However, I was very lucky because I didn't have to make a single change, and I went through the line in less than 20 minutes."

John Kreader,
freshman,
education:

"I didn't like the system because I had to be one of the last to register. I feel that this method takes away initiative. I had to rearrange my whole schedule because the classes I pre-counseled for were closed."

Judy Cisar,
freshman,
home economics:

"I didn't have any trouble getting the classes I wanted. I thought it was much quicker, but I felt sorry for the freshmen at the end of the alphabet, because their classes might be closed."

Julie Peterson,
sophomore,
education:

"The system is fine if you are a junior or senior, but if you are a freshman or sophomore, you are out of luck because you have to take what is left. I had trouble getting my classes."

Jim Craig,
freshman,
pre-med:

"I thought it was a lot better than last semester. None of my classes were closed. Last semester it took me about half a day to register. I was finished in less than an hour."

Jo Poulson,
junior,
elementary
education:

"I think this system is more efficient. But I think it is a shame that the freshmen had to be the last to register because many of them were discouraged when their classes were closed—and freshmen should be encouraged to stay in school. However, juniors and seniors have to get their classes so they can fulfill their requirements for graduation."

Utey Featured on TV-Radio Series

A new public affairs series produced by WOW-TV and WOW Radio is featuring William T. Utey, head of Omaha University political science department, and Arthur G. Umscheid, chairman of the departments of political science and history at Creighton.

The two professors will discuss and give their personal points-of-view on problems of the Nebraska legislature and proposed legislation participating as citizens, not as representatives of their respective schools.

The first program was broadcast January 29th, and following programs have been scheduled for the last Tuesday of each month through July, if the legislature remains in session that long.

Mr. Utey feels there is "no question that the public needs this sort of thing—only too often the only source is the newspaper and regular newscasts." He explained that the newspapers do not give detailed coverage to many issues that are up for consideration. The public is generally more willing to hear these problems discussed rather than read lengthy articles about them, he said.

Peggy Adds Duty: She Is a Mother

By Shirley Johnson

Peggy is celebrating her first anniversary with the Building and Grounds Department this month—and with a new title—"mother."

Besides her "official inspection" duties, Peggy has the added responsibility of mothering five pups, born Jan. 28.

It was late in February of 1962 when Bob Harder, a campus policeman, discovered Peggy, an underfed, near-frozen puppy in the Field House parking area. A timid and frightened pup at first, Peggy gradually warmed to Harder's attempts at friendliness.

Peggy Gets a Home

A committee of men approached Clarence Lefler, director of the Building and Grounds Department, with the proposal that the B&G quonset become a permanent home for Peggy. Permission granted, the pup soon became "general supervisor" of the department.

Family duties permitting, Peggy will continue to make rounds with the night watchmen and run with the groundsmen during the day. She still eats better than anyone in the department and has doubled her size since her arrival.

Peggy is officially licensed to the department, and due to voluntary contributions from B&G "dog lovers" she has received all the standard shots and medical care when ill.

She's Still a Queen

Despite the fact that she has had to share the limelight with her children, Peggy is still "queen" in the eyes of the groundsmen. "She has more public servants than anyone I know," Lefler said.

Peggy has adjusted to college life quite well. However, she doesn't make friends too readily—she is still a one-department dog!

Opinion of Students Wanted For Publication by GATEWAY

By Allan Johnson

Newspapers have a duty to the community that they serve.

One of the services which a newspaper renders to its public is that of an outlet for the opinions of its readers. This service usually comes under the heading of the Public Pulse or Letters to the Editor.

Such a service is offered to the public because it is expected that the public will utilize it—it is expected that the public has something to say and has a right to say it.

At Omaha University we have a weekly newspaper that strives to serve its community, the school, to the best of its ability.

Just as in any newspaper, there is room in the GATEWAY for anyone to express a legitimate opinion. However, last semester out of the 15 editions of the GATEWAY there were only nine letters written to the editor.

Could it be possible that everything about this university is held to be perfect in the eyes of every student on campus except those nine students who expressed opinions in the "Letters" column?

I'm sure that if a story appeared in the GATEWAY taking away the privileges of the "Letters" column there would be a flood of letters denouncing the action and claiming that you 'the student' have a right to voice your opinions—especially since this is your newspaper. No one could disagree with you in this judgment.

Hardly a day goes by that walking through the OUampi room one can't hear someone complaining about some phase of operation at the university. If these complaints are legitimate and you feel the need to be expressed to your fellow students, why not write them down and take them to the Student Publication office, room 116 Applied Arts.

No one can criticize you for expressing your opinion in the GATEWAY—after all, this is YOUR newspaper . . . USE IT.

Students Run Race In Registration

Last Week the Adm. Building was the site of the semi-yearly running of enrolled students. This race is known to all as registration.

The students' packets were checked by "checkers"—three of them. You would have thought they were trying to get into Fort Knox—not into classes.

They then proceeded to several "windows" where they got their class cards—if the class hadn't been scratched from the schedule. They went to another checker and then to a woman who informed them of their losses.

They went on past more stops for registering cars and getting activity cards until they reached another—you guessed it—checker!

They paid their losses, and the race was over.

Lambda Chi Alpha Has New Officers

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity chose new officers at a meeting January 28; they are: James Kaspar, President; John Stolley, Vice President; Louis Wells, Secretary; William Neville, Treasurer; George Schabloski, Pledge Trainer; Raymond Hultman, Ritualist; Jack Mielke, Rush Chairman.

Indian Thinclads Open Tonight; Sayers Due to Receive Help

by Mike Moran

Rocket Roger Sayers will lead his Omaha U teammates into the indoor track season tonight as the Indians take on Doane and Hastings Colleges in the Fieldhouse at seven.

OU will be looking to Sayers and ten returning lettermen for a repeat over the Nebraska State College teams. A year ago, the Indians scored 50 points to 41 for Hastings and 38 for Doane.

Sayers is expected to continue his personal duel with Doane's Clint Skinner. Skinner, loser to Sayers three times last year in various meets, has a career low of 6.3 in the 60 yard dash.

Distance Help

OU is expected to be a little stronger in the distances this year and hopes for a few points in the field events from a couple of newcomers, Dennis Beachler in the pole vault and Warren Lenz in the shotput.

With Sayers the key, OU's sprinters and middle distance crew could be among the best in the area.

State sprint champ Terry Williams of Omaha Central has been sidetracked temporarily by an unfortunate incident and is ineligible for an unknown period.

Williams has a low of 9.7 in the 100 yard dash and is expected to team with Sayers, Joe Johnson and Mel Wade to form a terrific mile relay entry.

OU will be missing points from performers such as Jim Foster in the broad jump, sprinter Alan Robert, Jason Decker in the hurdles and Marv Bratka in the high jump. All are not returning for a variety of reasons.

The returning lettermen are: Lloyd Cardwell, Loren Drum, Dave Hagglund, Ray Hultman, John Krogh, Warren Lenz, Herb Rhodes, Gerry Richardson, Gene Somer, Sayers and Basketballer Bruce Hunter.

This season will mark Coach Lloyd Cardwell's third season as head track coach.

No. Mich. Added To OU Grid Slate

Omaha University has added another small college football power to its 1963 football schedule to replace St. Benedict's college for an October 26 home game.

Athletic Director Virgil Yelkin announced Tuesday that Northern Michigan College would replace the Ravens, who have dropped intercollegiate football for various reasons.

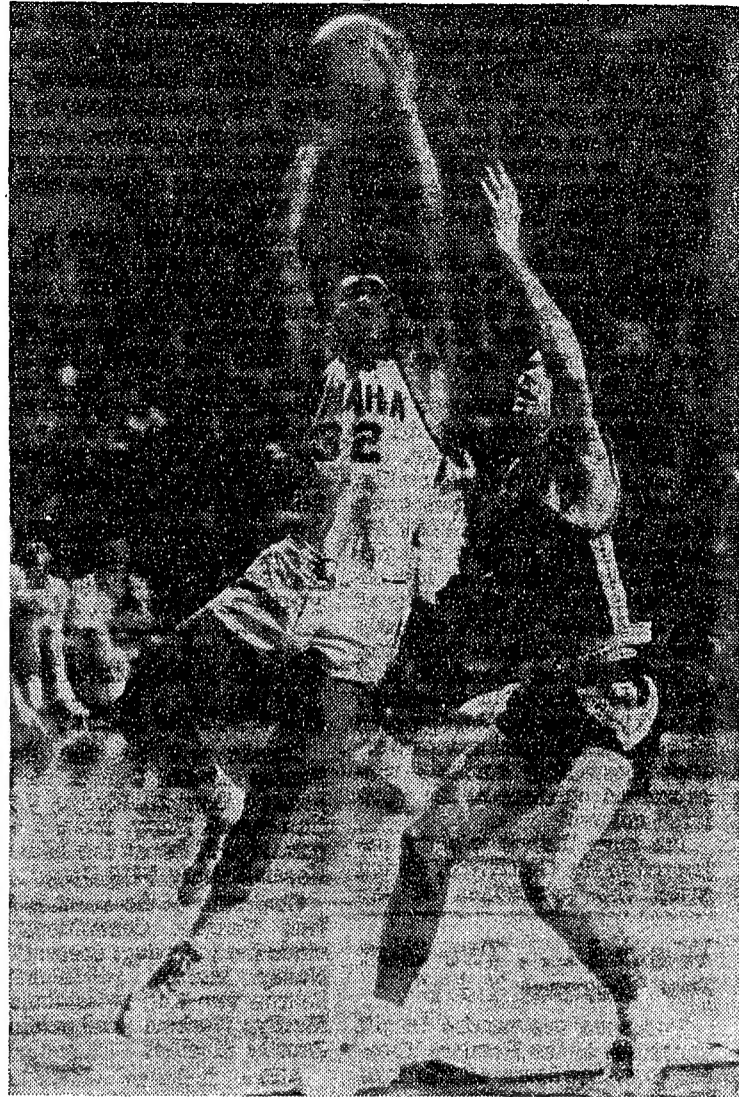

Northern Michigan was in and out of the small college ratings this season and clobbered Peru State of Nebraska by 42-0 early in the season.

The addition of the Michigan eleven brings the home game schedule to four games.

The Omaha U schedule:

- Sept. 21—Morningside College at Omaha
- Sept. 28—Idaho State College at Omaha
- Oct. 5—Omaha N. at Northern Illinois
- Oct. 12—Omaha U. at Fort Hays State
- Oct. 19—Omaha U. at Emporia State
- Oct. 26—Northern Michigan at Omaha
- Nov. 2—Washburn at Omaha
- Nov. 9—Omaha U. at Pittsburg State
- Nov. 16—Omaha U. at Drake University

Indians Split With Kansas; Host Fort Hays St. Tomorrow

Lloyd lays it up.

by Mike Moran

Omaha University's resurgent basketballers flunked their first test of the second half Tuesday night as they dropped a 68-57 contest to Emporia State on the OU floor.

The defeat snapped a two game Omaha win string and ruined OU hopes for a first division finish prompted by a 61-59 win over St. Benedict's during the semester break.

The loss dropped Omaha's conference mark to 2-3 and the season total to a so-so 7-8 mark.

The Indians, despite a quick scoring drought during the first eight minutes, found themselves down only 30-29 at the half thanks to some heads up defensive hustle.

The second half started out great as the Omahans quickly bolted to a five point lead only to see mental lapses and defensive laxness cost them the ball game.

The Indians had a tie at 43 all but a three point play by little John Patterson put Emporia ahead to stay.

The Indians had their offense going well, but glaring defensive errors along the backline and several costly fouls hurt OU chances.

Jon Lloyd led Omaha with 13 points and a fine floor game while Big Ed Woodward contributed 10 points and a stand-out rebounding effort.

Ravens Fall

Sophomore Bernie Miller was the man of the hour as the Indians nipped St. Benedict's at the buzzer. The blond forward took a pass from Jon Lloyd just over midcourt, whirled and threw a desperation toss toward the bucket and watched it smack off the backboard and in as the game ended to gain OU a 61-59 win.

Until that point it had looked like an easy win for the Indians who had leads of as much as twelve points.

With about 12 minutes to go, little Willy LaNere took over for the Ravens and pulled them to within one point as he scored 13 points in ten minutes.

His three point play with a minute to go pulled the Kansans to a tie and it looked a sure overtime until Miller's wishful heave.

Lloyd led Omaha with 19 points and Charlie Meyers chipped in with a fine floor game.
